BACKGROUND TO THE TRAINING & DEVELOPMENT PACKAGE

The Improving Teacher Programme is a nationally recognised training package targeted at teachers aspiring to deliver consistently good or better lessons. Teachers who have attended the training describe it as:

"A good way of re-focussing my teaching and giving me confidence in how I teach"

"It has allowed us to reflect on our teaching and take account of what is important within teaching"

"I think that every teacher tends to get set in their ways and I do feel that this has been a true 'refresher' course"

Comments from a recent quality assurance visit:

"Delegates were keen to share with and learn from each other"

"The level of engagement in learning was a real strength of the session"

"Well-designed learning processes enabled delegates to contribute to each other's learning, for example, the feedback from the lesson observations"

"The programme's impact on learning was clearly evidenced by comments made by delegates about things they have tried in their own classrooms as the result of ITP sessions and, crucially, how this impacted on their children's learning".

OUTLINE OF THE TRAINING & DEVELOPMENT PACKAGE

The primary programme consists of 6 full day sessions. The first three at Molescroft Primary School and the other three at Snaith Primary School. These cover elements of good teaching such as: engagement, starter, plenary, assessment, questioning and differentiation.

Delegates have the opportunity to observe high quality live teaching and each session has a clear focus aimed at refreshing professional practice in a supportive environment.

The training is led by two outstanding classroom teachers who are qualified as facilitators to run the programme successfully.

COURSE LEADERS Primary: Richard Atkinson & Jenny Sherlock
